I believe the most productive teams are not so much about having the best people, but having the people who work best together, then providing them with the right tools and encouraging them to excel. This is credo I have tried to stick with while leading amazing teams that have been able to accomplish amazing goals through various business model formats.

EXPERIENCE

JANUARY 2020 – CURRENT

PRODUCT MANAGER, MOTIVO ENGINEERING

Leading a team of engineers and technicians to execute on numerous, end-to-end product design and engineering projects. Development of client relationships, budgets and schedules, team growth, and management tools while striving for the success of all projects across the company while tracking and executing to Key Performance Indicators. Projects and clients exist on the bleeding edge of the mobility, energy, agtech, and aerospace industries.

- Exceeded annual on contract goals by 33% in 2020, despite most clients and team members going remote
- Developed new forms of communication and data tracking to respond to a switch to remote operations
- Increased team size by 100% in 2020 to help execute on numerous multi-million dollar projects/clients
- Responsible for mentoring the group of project managers to work on career growth and management skills
